

reverse-print procedures will need to be followed. LexEdge II 10-mil is shipped with the polished print surface rolled out.

When printing on LexEdge II 10-mil, a specific color of foil will typically be used as a solid backing color. This color will generally be assigned as an overprint. In order to ensure that this color covers the other printed graphics as completely as possible, it may be necessary to alter its print settings. (This will be especially needed when the backing foil will be printed on top of more than two other colors.)

